NATION'S BRIDE IS MARRIED.

Washington, Feb. 17.—With a plain circle of virgin gold, in the historic East room of the White House at thirteen minutes after 12 o'clock today, Alice Lee Roosevelt, eldest daughter of the President of the United States, and Nicholas Longworth, the Representative in Congress from the First district of Ohio, were united in marriage.

The ceremony—one of the most impressive ever performed in the Executive Mansion—was according to the liturgy of the protestant Episcopal church, of which the bride is a member. It was solemnized by the devotional beauty of a Cathedral service.

No ceremony of a similar kind ever was witnessed by a more distinguished assemblage. There were present as guests, not only the most eminent representatives of the American Government, but the personal commissions of the Kings and Potentates of the powers of the civilized world, constituting an assemblage not only one of the largest, but the most distinguished that ever was gathered at one time in the White House.

A halo of a hundred years of romantic White House history hung over the bridal couple. Miss Roosevelt was the twelfth bride according to accepted authorities, to plight her troth within its classic walls and the identical spot where she today joined hands with the husband of her choice, "for better, or for worse," is hallowed in the memory of another White House bride, "Nellie" Grant, who thirty-two years ago on that same spot became the wife of an Englishman, Algernon C. F. Sartoris. Tender, indeed, must have been the recollections of Mrs. Sartoris of that day, now long ago, for she was one of the witnesses of Miss Roosevelt's wedding.

One Thousand Guests.

While the bride, herself, and the President and Mrs. Roosevelt had desired that the ceremony of the marriage should be quiet and simple as possible, it was found impracticable to limit the function, as was intended at first, to the immediate relatives of the bride and bridegroom. It became necessary to include among the guests invited certain official classes and personal friends of Miss Roosevelt and Mr. Longworth, and, in all, the people bidden to the ceremony numbered a thousand.

The ceremony took place in the East room, made famous by a century of brilliant social functions, but no event in its history ever was so brilliant and beautiful as that of today. The classic splendor of the great apartment was enhanced by exquisite and artistic decorations and the brilliant sunlight of a gorgeous day lent added beauty to the setting of the wedding.

It had been intended to light the magnificent room with the hundreds of softly shaded electric lamps of the great crystal chandeliers, but, while artificial lights were utilized throughout the remainder of the White House, it was determined to flood the marriage scene with sunlight.

In The Sunlight.

It was a beautiful conceit founded upon the pretty proverb: "Happy is the bride the sun shines on." No lovelier day in winter ever dawned.

"The air was as balmy, almost, as in spring. No more auspicious day for a wedding could have been imagined.

For days the White House, ordinary open to visitors during specified hours of each day, had been closed, pending arrangements for today's ceremony. The East room, in which the ceremony occurred, was decorated most elaborately.

To Be Played March 1.

"A Regular Flirt" the style of a three act comedy will be played here by local talent March 1. The cast has been rehearsing for several weeks and a treat is in store for those who will see the play.

Miss Morrison Married.

J. W. Cox Dead.

John W. Cox, Section Foreman at Falls of Rough, died Sunday night of pneumonia after a short illness. He was a member of the Glendene Lodge F. & S. M. His funeral was conducted by the Masons.

ly. Not since the incoming of the administration of President Roosevelt have the White House apartments been so exquisitely graced with flowers as they were today.

While no space necessary for guests was taken up with floral decorations, every room in the lower part of the Executive Mansion was brilliant with flowers and decorative plants.

Beginning of Ceremony.

At four minutes after 12 o'clock Mrs. Roosevelt, on the arm of her eldest son Theodore, Jr., descended the main staircase, and entered the East room by the west doors. She was preceded by Major Charles McCauley and other military aides, and was escorted to a point at the left of the platform where the wedding ceremony was to take place.

The mother and sisters of the bridegroom and other designated members of his family already had assumed their places at the right of the platform.

That a way might be kept clear for the approach to the extemporized altar of the wedding two strong white satin ropes were stretched from each side of the main entrance to the East room to points on the east wall of the apartment on the north and south sides of the floral bow.

Mrs. Roosevelt was followed by her son Kermit and her daughter Ethel and her sons Archie and Quint in couples. The children stood with their mother on the north side of the altar platform.

As she entered the East room Mrs. Roosevelt graciously acknowledged the greeting of friends. She wore a superb gown of cream-colored brocade heavy and richly designed, on which were figures of blue and brown interlaced with threads of gold. The dress was cut in Princess style with a long train of the same brocade material. It was trimmed in brown chiffon, embroidered in blue and gold.

The yoke of the bodice was formed of embroidered chiffon, as were the trimmings of the elbow sleeves. The skirt, exquisitely designed, was paneled in blue and gold embroidery. She wore long white undressed kid gloves, and ornaments of diamonds.

Bridegroom Follows.

Following her almost immediately came the bridegroom Nicholas Longworth, accompanied by his best man Thomas Nelson Perkins, of Boston, one of the members of the corporation of Harvard College, and a classmate at college of Mr. Longworth. They descended the main staircase and entered the East room under the escort of the military aides. The groom and his best man took their places at the foot of the embowered platform to await the coming of the bride. Already Bishop Satterlee had taken his place on the platform, attired in the purple and ivory robes of his clerical office.

Scarcely had the bridegroom entered the East room when the doors of the state dining room at the west entrance of the main corridor were flung open and the bridal procession started for the extemporized altar.

Then Comes The Bride.

The President and Miss Roosevelt had descended from the upper apartments of the White House by the elevator. They had passed into the private dining room and thence into the state dining room. There they were joined by the ushers, Quincy A. Shaw, of Boston; Frederick Winthrop, of New York, and Francis R. Bangs, of Boston. Guy Norman, of Boston; A. B. Wallingford, of Cincinnati; Lars Anderson, of Washington; Vicomte Charles De Chamburn, of the French Embassy, and Theodore Roosevelt, Jr. Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Shaw led the bridal procession.

Following the ushers came President Roosevelt and the bride, her hand resting lightly within the right arm of her father.

As the procession moved through the main corridor and into the East room, the marine band orchestra rendered effectively the grand march from Wagner's "Tannhauser." Miss Roosevelt never appeared to better advantage. Perfectly self-possessed and thoroughly appreciative of the situation, she graciously recognized and bowed to personal friends who lined the way to the altar.

Mr. Short's business career of twenty years in the city as member of the firm of Short & Haynes has been both a pleasant and prosperous one. His methods of square dealing with his trade have won for him a high place in the estimation of Cloverport. Mr. Short has marked business ability and the people of Durant should be glad to welcome him. The News bespeaks for both Mr. and Mrs. Short happiness and prosperity in their new domicile.

The Biggie Health Book.

No human machine ever contrived is so ingenious, efficient, and skillfully put together as the human body. Think of what it does—it takes food, and turns it into force and ideas; it turns beef into brains, apples into art, and pie into poetry. It stands success fully more hard knocks and bad usage than any machine ever did. In the Biggie Health Book, Jacob Biggie tells how to care for this delicate machinery of ours, and how to keep it from needing repairs all the time. Not a scientific work full of jaw breaking words but a book written by a layman for layman, giving the principles of sound, healthy living. Not a family in the country that does not need it, to prevent the doctor's too frequent visits, and to help him when he does come. It is a fine specimen of book-making, beautifully printed and bound in cloth, and contains 181 pages. The price is 50 cents, free by mail; address the publishers, Wilmer Atkinson Co., Philadelphia.

Epworth League Social.

The Epworth League gave a pea-nut social in the Sunday school room of the M. E. Church Friday evening. The entertainment was in charge of Miss Jennie Mabel Harris, third vice-president of the League and her committee composed of Misses Donald Murray, Eva and Edith Plank. A delightful evening was had.

Doing Fine Business.

Glascock Co., of Glendene, run a big general merchandise store and are doing a fine business because the people know that the best bargains can be had at this company's houses. Glascock Co. are agents for various lines of plows and fertilizers and are prepared to make very low prices on the above lines.

Best Price Yet.

The best prices that have ever been gotten for Hawesville pooled tobacco were those received last week. The tobacco was assorted into first, second and third grades and $4.50 per hundred was received for the round. John Minnett, Cal Laman, Bud Halloned and S. J. Baker composed the selling committee.

J. T. Hughes Dead.

J. T. Hughes died at his home at Falls of Rough, Friday morning, Feb. 16 of pneumonia. He was 59 years of age and is survived by a wife and daughter. Mr. Hughes was night watchman at Col. Lefe Greens' for 14 years. Every body liked Mr. Hughes, he being a fine citizen.

Buy Fine Bull.

W. R. Moorman & Son, stock dealers, of Glendene, bought of A. C. Woods & Son, Pendleton, Ind., a polled Durham bull 2 years old, weight 1200 pounds. The animal has the second prize of America. Price $425.

Cuts Head.

Myron Moorman, near Glendene, cut his head badly last week with a two-edged ax. He was in the act of cutting a piece of wood when the ax hung on a piece of wire and in some way cut a bad gash in his head.

L. V. Chapin, who has been sick for several weeks, is better and will resume his duties as assistant post-master.

The Commercial Club meeting last Thursday night in the Bank of Cloverport was lively and enthusiastic. Many of the members were present and all took part. Routine business was transacted and new ideas for the benefit of the club were presented by several members and acted upon. The club deserves the co-operation of the farmers and took steps to induce them to become members of the organization.

A committee on Development and Public Improvement was created and the following were assigned to it. P. D. Plank, J. L. Moorman, Conrad Sippel, Chas. W. Hamman. The committee was requested to see the city council and learn what inducements the town would give to new industries in regard to taxes, etc.

H. L. Stader, Chas. Bohler and Julian Brown were made a committee on Good Roads and transportation.

Membership committee was requested to solicit farmers to join the club.

Every Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. was made the regular meeting nights. The Bank of Cloverport will be used at present as a meeting place.

The following new members have been reported since the first meeting making all 50.

ELECTRIC LIGHTS FOR OUR CITY.

City council had an adjourned meeting Monday night to consider bids on an electric light franchise. H. Stuart Miller, of Owensboro, was the only bidder. His bid $5. The bid was accepted. The franchise, by law can not be sold at other than a regular meeting. March 5 will be the next regular meeting and the franchise in all probability will be sold to Mr. Miller. The selling of the franchise means the erecting of a plantor the forfeiting of $100 in cash. It is now an almost certainty that the town will have electric lights.

WM. NEWBERRY KILLS HIMSELF AT DUKES

William Newberry killed himself with a shot gun on the rear porch of his home near Duke, Wednesday about 9 o'clock.

From all indications there must have been trouble in the household. Newberry left home early yesterday morning and went to the home of his father and got a shot gun. He then returned to his own home and sent a charge of shot through his left breast, pulling the trigger with a string. A sister of his wife heard the shot and when she opened the door she found the man lying in a death struggle on the porch and heard him cry "I'm dying, I'm dying!" She gave the alarm and Lefe Newberry, the father, arrived in time to extinguish the flames which were consuming the dying man's clothing ignited by the powder from the weapon.

William Newberry was about twenty four years old and was only recently married in Hawesville to Miss Hettie Nation of Tar Fork, Breckenridge county.

Her sister was in the house when the tragedy occurred. The young man was the only child of Lefe Newberry of Patesville, well known in the county and at one time a citizen of Hawesville. —Hancock Clarion.

Absolutely Pure

A GRAPE CREAM OF TARTAR BAKING POWDER

It makes the most delicious and healthful hot breads,
biscuit and cake

FREE FROM ALUM, LIME OR PHOSPHATIC ACID

Alum baking powders are unhealthful. Do not use them for raising food under any circumstances. So detrimental are alum baking powders considered, that in most foreign countries their sale is prohibited. In many States in this country the law compels alum powders to be branded to show that they contain this dangerous acid, while in the District of Columbia, Congress has prohibited the sale of all food that contains alum.

Alum baking powders are sold to consumers at from 10 cents a pound to 25 ounces for 25 cents, or 25 cents a pound, and when not branded may generally be distinguished by their price.

PETITIONS FOR NEW COUNTY SENT IN.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 17 (Special).—The advocates and opponents of the Beckman County Bill, introduced by Representative Beard, of Breckenridge county, appeared before the Kentucky Statutes Committee this afternoon.

The map of the county and petitions signed by 2000 of the people in the proposed new county were submitted to the committee on behalf of the county. It was shown that all the legislation all requirements had been adhered to. Claude Mercer, of Hardinsburg, and W. H. Barnes, of Hartford, spoke in behalf of the county, declaring that the people down there wanted it; that Fordsville was more accessible to the people affected than the several county seats, and that the territory would be greatly developed.

C. M. Crow, H. P. Taylor, Senator Tabb, of Hardin and Grayson counties; Senaor Owen, of Breckenridge, and Representative Litsey of Grayson, opposed the change. Senator Tabb said two meetings of citizens in Grayson county had been held to remonstrate and that he had a hundred letters from his constituents protesting against the change. He said the three counties from which the new county was to be made were paupers, and the new one would likewise be a pauper county. Mr. Taylor said he never knew how the new county was to be formed until he came to Frankfort and saw the map.
